Gang,

My son and I are the proud owners of a 1946 Du Mont Cathode-ray Oscilloscope TYPE 274 complete with Operating and Maintenance Manual. Purchased it for $5 at a local swap fest (actually did a closed bid on it and we were the highest bidders). The thing seems to work (get a nice little line on the screen when powered up and little knobs seem to make the line do things).

As you can guess, I haven't got the foggiest idea of what we have or what to use it for. Any suggestions? Books? What would be nice is to be able to demo some of the things it will do to my scouts (if you could explain what it is I'm doing it would be even better - if not they all know I'm a basic idiot).

Thanks

de KB0ROL, Brad

PS I subscribe to the digest of QRP-L and Glowbugs but not at all to the Boatanchors group so if you have a response could you send it directly to me at either bmug@gwl.com or KB0ROL@juno.com. Respond to a list only if you think someone else might benefit. THANKS
